Strachan is 'severed' from main cover-up case

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today ordered a separate Watergate cover-up trial for former White House aide Gordon Strachan.

The order leaves five defendants to face charges in the main cover-up trial scheduled to begin Tuesday.

Strachan's lawyer, John M. Bray, told reporters as he left the U.S. District Courthouse today, "we've been severed from the cover-up case."

The action had been requested by Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Sirica also was expected to rule today on whether he will allow typed transcripts to be used along with some 33 presidential tapes the prosecution wants as evidence at the trial.

A separate request from Strachan that the conspiracy, obstruction of justice, and perjury charges against him be dismissed was denied without prejudice by Sirica.

The fact that the motion was denied without prejudice means Strachan can raise the issue again later.

The separate trial for Strachan is based upon a special legal problem. The one-time personal assistant to White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman claims the evidence used to indict him is tainted.

Strachan's attorney has said Strachan was promised immunity from prosecution in exchange for testimony before a Watergate grand jury.

In a series of appeals, Bray also said his client's testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee was improperly used to obtain the indictment.

Two U.S. Court of Appeals judges, while refusing to dismiss the charges against Strachan acknowledged that his legal argument has merit.

The others scheduled to be tried are: Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell; former chief of staff H.R. Haldeman; former Nixon domestic counselor John D. Ehrlichman; and two men who worked for Nixon's re-election committee, former assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian and committee lawyer Kenneth W. Parkinson.

All are charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice by attempting to keep investigators from learning who was responsible for the June 1972 Watergate break-in and who knew about it.

The grand jury that indicted the men last March 1 also voted to name then-President Nixon as a co-conspirator.

Nixon has been subpoenaed as both a prosecution and defense witness but his health has put his appearance at the trial in doubt.

The trial, one of the most widely publicized in legal history, has attracted newsmen from all over the world. Court officials said that 135 organizations have applied for the 65 media seats available.

This will be the second Watergate-related trial for both Mitchell and Ehrlichman.

Mitchell was acquitted earlier this year of charges he did political favors in return for a $200,000 campaign contribution from fugitive financier Robert Vesco.

Ehrlichman was convicted of conspiring to violate the rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist and two counts of perjury. He is appealing his sentence of 20 months to five years.

Senators say Cuban 'ice broken'

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro met with two American senators who said afterward they got the "impression that Cuba is interested in working toward a normalization" of relations with the United States.

"The ice has been broken," Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., told reporters after he and Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., spent three hours with Castro late Sunday night.

The two senators were to end their three-day visit today.

Pell said the meeting with Castro was "frank, warm and friendly," but neither senator would say why he believed an improved climate between the two countries may be in the offing.

Javits said among the issues raised during the meeting were Cuban attempts to export revolution, the status of nine American political prisoners on the island and American property taken over by the Castro government.

Twenty-hours earlier, Castro attacked President Ford in a speech for his defense of CIA operations against the Allende regime in Chile. He also charged that the United States rather than the oil-exporting countries is responsible for the world economic crisis.

Asked how a normalization of relations could be in prospect in view of these statements, Pell replied: "There is a difference between words and actions."

The senators likened Cuba's attitude to that of the Soviet Union and China, both of which have improved relations with the United States while maintaining a tough anti-American posture in official declarations.

Javits said their visit was "in no way, shape or form approval of any of the policies of this government."

He said he told Castro he took strong exception to the prime minister's speech.

The New Yorker said Saturday after meeting with Foreign Minister Raul Roa that it was his clear impression that the Cuban government was prepared to discuss a more normal relationship with the United States.

Castro earlier expressed hope that President Ford's accession to the White House might lead to an improved climate between Cuba and the United States, and the visit by the two senators and 29 American newsmen who accompanied them was a step in that direction.

The senators, the first members of Congress to visit Cuba since before the United States broke diplomatic relations in 1961, were not in Havana's Revolution Plaza when Castro spoke Saturday to hundreds of thousands of Cubans.

The prime minister attacked President Ford's recent defense of CIA operations in Chile during the regime of the late President Salvador Allende, saying:

"The new president of the United States, to the surprise and stupefaction of Latin American public opinion, has declared that such actions were carried out in the best interests of the United States.

"Thus, the government of the United States proclaims openly the right to intervene by any means, regardless of how illicit, dirty or criminal, in the internal processes of the nations of the hemisphere."

Discussing Ford's appeal to the oil-exporting countries to lower their prices to avert worldwide economic chaos, Castro cited the "hundreds of billions of dollars" the United States has spent on its "war budget" and declared: "In these deplorable imperialistic policies are the roots of inflation, which emerged long before the oil price increases."

Deadline by terrorists passes without incident

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — U.S. diplomat Barbara Hutchison was reported in good spirits but uncomfortable today inside the sweltering Venezuelan Consulate where six leftist terrorists held her and five other persons hostage under threat of death.

Early today the gunmen demanded that police and troops pull back from the two-story stucco building within two hours, but the government did not comply and the deadline passed without any evidence of hostile action by the terrorists.

"Miss Hutchison has not been maltreated, is in good spirits and is being treated as well as she can under the conditions," said U.S. Ambassador Robert A. Hurwitch. "But she is not comfortable."

Miss Hutchison, director of the U.S.

Information Service in the Dominican Republic, Venezuelan Consul-General Jesus de Gregorio and the others were seized Friday and threatened with death unless the terrorists got $1 million and safe conduct to Cuba or Mexico for themselves and 37 Dominican prisoners. The government rejected all the demands except transportation out of the country for the terrorists.

On Saturday, the government cut off the consulate's electricity, which in turn shut down the air conditioning and water pumps. The temperature inside the building has ranged between 90-95 degrees, and the gunmen have refused to open the windows, apparently afraid the hostages would try to escape. On Saturday, one hostage leaped to freedom from a second-floor window.

Hurwitch, who needed a shave and spent a sleepless night, told newsmen after conferring with police that mattresses would be taken into the building soon.

"We have been reviewing some of the measures to make them more comfortable in there and this is one of the things we came up with," he said.

Asked about progress in negotiations to free the captives, he said: "I wish I could say something about this to you but my inability to is only over the concern for Miss Hutchison and the others."

He said the Dominican government has "primary responsibility" in any negotiations, and that he was "hopeful for a peaceful solution."

On fraud and ADC

Welfare action recommended

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Legislation to combat welfare fraud and a federal government takeover of Aid to Dependent Children payments have been recommended by a Missouri Senate committee studying welfare.

The ADC payments in Missouri are $39 a month for the mother or guardian, $51 a month to the first child and $30 a month for each additional child.

Reduction of paperwork for welfare workers, giving more independence to county welfare offices and better treatment for welfare clients were among the recommendations released by the Senate Information Office.

Similar recommendations were made earlier by a House committee investigating welfare.

On the Senate committee are Democrats Robert Young of St. Ann, Raymond Howard of St. Louis, Mary Gant of Kansas City, Ike Skelton of Lexington, and Republicans Richard Webster of Carthage, Paul Bradshaw of Springfield and Emory Melton of Cassville.

Some of the recommendations, such as setting up a fraud squad, were endorsed by Lawrence Graham, new director of the Social Services Department.

"It seems to me, after these hearings, that our legislature should be reviewing big programs like this on an annual basis to make sure we're getting value received for our tax dollars," Young said.

One recommended law would eliminate the present property maximum of $10,500 for ADC families and provide instead a homestead exemption.

Also recommended was enough money for the attorney general to hire staff to enforce a strong antifraud law.

The committee also recommended including the natural father in the ADC unemployed parent program, and setting up a fund to pay for vocational job training for those on ADC.

The committee suggested the Senate Appropriations Committee review administrative practices of the Welfare Division, including duplication of staffing between programs and reduction of the eligibility and overpayment error rates to not more than 8 per cent.

A study last year showed the error rate for overpayments and ineligible to be 21 per cent in Missouri.

House to battle on committees

WASHINGTON (AP) — A controversial proposal to realign House committees touches off a bruising week in Congress, with battles also expected over foreign aid and funds for former President Richard M. Nixon.

The House has set aside a full week for the intramural struggle over committees. Opponents will try to prevent consideration of the measure today by seeking to defeat the resolution that brings it to the floor. Failing there, they hope to convince the Democrats at a special party caucus Tuesday that it should be put off until next year.

The bill, drafted by a special committee headed by Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., would eliminate two committees, drastically revise the jurisdiction of most others, and limit membership to one major committee.

The last time the committees were shuffled was in 1948 and supporters of the bill claim the proposed changes would permit Congress to operate more efficiently.

The opponents are backing a substitute proposal that leaves committee jurisdictions untouched but would make some procedural changes. They say the sweeping changes proposed in the Bolling bill would cause such confusion and resentment that the House would be unable to function.

The House will take time out from the committee fight to act on a couple of appropriations bills, including one that would provide $398,000 to help Nixon make the transition from the White House to private life.

The sum was cut from the $850,000 figure proposed by the Ford administration and an effort to reduce it further is expected. The vote is due Tuesday.

Also on the Senate agenda is the foreign aid authorization bill, but the administration strongly opposes a number of restrictive amendments that have been added by the Foreign Relations Committee.

The Senate is scheduled to act today on a bill providing appropriations for programs and agencies that have not yet had their regular money bills passed. It contains a provision that would cut off military aid to Turkey, but it is not as strict as the one passed by the House last week.

New Portuguese president named

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Gen. Antonio de Spínola resigned as president of Portugal today, claiming he was powerless to prevent the country's slide into chaos and anarchy.

The Junta of National Salvation, comprising the military rulers who overthrew the heirs of the Salazar dictatorship last April, quickly appointed as Spínola's successor Gen. Francisco Costa Gomes, long considered the president's top assistant in the junta.

Spínola resigned after leftists forced his rightist supporters to cancel a weekend rally in the general's honor. But the underlying causes of Spínola's departure were basic disagreements with the left over the pace with which reforms were being introduced in post-revolutionary Portuguese society.

His departure removed the last prominent conservative from the six-month-old government.

"I cannot and will not take part" in a "betrayal of the spirit of the movement" that brought the military to power, the 64-year-old general declared in a national telecast.

He said part of that spirit was a commitment to "harmony among all political beliefs" and added: "This harmony will never be possible when on one hand the declared chiefs of some political parties make appeals to good sense and on the other hand respective active groups choose the path of psychological warfare through the big news media and even through violence in flagrant negation of liberty."

"I find myself facing evidence that the program of the movement of the armed forces is developing in a direction that would result in its own neutralization in a climate of a reversal of moral standards within which true democracy and liberty are impossible," Spínola said.

He charged that there has been a "systematic surrender" to "reforms carried out in a maniacal way" which threatened the capacity of the Portuguese people to define their "democratic institutions."

He said the "pervading atmosphere" was "total absence of law" that was depriving the Portuguese "of their true ability to exercise sovereignty."

"In this general climate of anarchy, where everyone dictates his own law, crisis and chaos are inevitable, in flagrant contradiction to the purposes of the movement."

Ecevit abandons coalition efforts

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Premier Bulent Ecevit abandoned his attempts today to form a new coalition government, and President Fahri Koruturk asked Ecevit's chief rival, former Premier Suleyman Demirel, to try.

Ecevit resigned two weeks ago because of what he called irreconcilable differences between his Republican Peoples party and its coalition partner, the Moslem National Salvation party. They had been at odds over Cyprus policy and cultural, educational and economic matters.

After a meeting with Koruturk, Demirel said he would discuss the situation with leaders of his Justice party, parliament's main opposition group, before beginning steps toward a coalition.

Demirel's failure to unite several conservative parties, with 60 per cent of the 450 assembly seats, led last fall to Ecevit's first coalition, which fell two weeks ago.

Demirel was premier from 1965 to 1971 and was overthrown by Turkey's military commanders because they said he was unable to end urban terrorism or to legislate social and economic reforms.

The Justice party now has only 149 assembly seats. It needs the backing of two right-wing parties, the National Salvationists with 49 seats and the Democratic party with 43 seats, for a majority.

Koruturk returned Ecevit's mandate to form a coalition government after his first resignation. The small, right-wing Democratic party twice rebuffed appeals by the premier to join in partnership with Ecevit's Republicans.

After Koruturk gave Ecevit his second mandate, a compromise was reached in parliament to hold elections next spring, but Ecevit still was unable to form a coalition and he resigned despite the agreement.

Student pilot would rather fly than drive

By TOM MAUPIN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Mike Bare, a sophomore at Smith-Cotton High School, finds the emptiness of the sky more comfortable than the limitation of the highway.

Bare is 16-years-old and believed-to-be the youngest person to solo a plane in Sedalia. In fact, he got his student pilot's license before his driver's license.

"I don't like to drive as well as I like to fly," he said. "I don't like all the cars coming toward me. In flying it isn't as crowded."

Bare said flying has always interested him. In the past he has built model airplanes that fly rather than the plastic variety that gather dust on a display shelf.

When he was 11, Bare's determination to fly took him to the Sedalia airport where he tried in vain to enroll in flying lessons.

"They said I was too young. So I went back when I was 12 and started taking lessons," Bare said.

For the past four years he has been taking flying lessons at the airport and "ground lessons" at State Fair Community College. He said the SFCC course teaches what you need to know, "before you go into the air."

While Bare was learning, flight instructor Ron Hoppes took him under his wing and helped him with lessons and getting money for instructions. Hoppes, a private pilot, found work for the young flyer around the airport, such as washing and painting aircraft. Bare said Hoppes has taken him on many flights around the state so he got more flying hours in his log book.

"If it wasn't for Ron I probably wouldn't be flying today," Bare said.

Flying a 150-horse power plane isn't as easy as it looks. Bare said, and landing can be hard on the pilot and his instructor.

"My first few landings were pretty hard and I used to scare the instructor. One time he said before we got into the plane, 'don't scare me today,'" Bare said.

The cost of the instructor is $6 an hour plus $15 for the solo flights. Bare said the cost and study involved causes three of every four students to abandon their interest.

"But I always knew I'd solo someday," he stated.

Eventually Bare would like to be a commercial pilot, but even if that isn't possible he still wants to work in aviation. His only concern is that the work be directly with airplanes.

"I just like aviation. I'd rather work as a mechanic if I can't be a pilot," he said.

For the present, however, Bare has to put up with the teasing of students confined to the ground. He said his nickname at Smith-Cotton is "Fly boy." But Bare said the teasing and the doubts of some students don't bother him. He did laugh and say some of the believers have asked him to drop bombs on teachers' homes.

As for his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bare, 2306 West First, the feelings about his hobby are mixed. Bare said his father, "kinda half likes it, but Mom has never seen me solo."

Preparing for take off

Before going into the air, Mike Bare, like all pilots, must make a careful check of his plane. Bare has done most of his flying in this Cessna 150. At left, Bare inspects the tail assembly of the 150-horse power plane. Inside the cockpit of the two-seater, above, Bare checks his instruments prior to take off.

Cast iron pan turns food black

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those people who allow their small children to hold up lines at a drive-in bank just so they can take the money tube out, put it back, drop it and take up more and more time. This may be all right when there is no one in back but very thoughtless when a line of people are idling their car motors waiting.

Also, children pushing carts in supermarkets can be a real hazard. How often I have been nearly crippled as a child went by pushing a cart very fast and with no regard for the heels of those trying to do their shopping. — MRS. G.L.

DEAR POLLY — I found Mrs. H.O.N.'s letter suggesting that motorcycles not be allowed to take vacant parking spaces but go to undesignated areas rather infuriating. We cyclists must take a driver's test to get a license just the same as the driver of an automobile. We must buy license plates just like carowners and are subject to all rules of the road, fines and penalties just as car drivers. I say we are entitled to a parking space in any parking lot for we would certainly get a ticket if improperly parked. After all the nickel we put in the meter is worth as much as the nickel put in by the driver of a car. — KAREN.

DEAR POLLY — To erase a white mark, such as powder, from any black material just rub a small piece of the black fabric over the white or light mark and it will disappear. — MRS. L.R.R.

DEAR POLLY — and Mrs. J.D.W. — When making a circular floor length skirt for a table, use a skirt hemmer for marking the length and cut with pinking shears so it can be cut without hemming. — DOTTY.

DEAR POLLY — Quilt making again has become so popular that I am embroidering my initials and the date in a corner of each quilt I make. Whenever the quilt becomes an heirloom my grandchildren, etc., will have some sort of record concerning it. My mother had many old quilts that we would love to know more about such as when they were made and by whom. — MRS. W.McA.

DEAR GIRLS — Do the same with your needlepoint. — POLLY.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I have some cast iron cookware that I enjoy using but have a problem with a two-quart sauce pan that turns everything black. I have no trouble with the other pieces. I hope someone can tell me what I can do to this pan. Any advice will be greatly appreciated. — MARIE.

Shooters run in the family

By ALAN FREEMAN

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (AP) — Vicki Boa does not look like a typical target rifle shooter.

Vicki is slight, blond and pretty. And she was one of the few women competing in the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association DCRA annual meet near Ottawa.

Major Gordon Switzer, the DCRA's secretary-treasurer, said there were about 20 women among the 125 shooters here. Vicki started shooting last summer.

"I guess I started to keep my dad company," the 19-year-old student said.

Vicki's father, Gil Boa, was a member of Canada's shooting team at five Olympic Games, including the Munich Games in 1972. He died last September.

Shooting is a family tradition with the Boas.

"I'm the fourth generation of shooters in the family," she said.

Jim Boa, Vicki's grandfather, was a member of a Canadian team at the Commonwealth shooting matches in Bisley, England.

The Boa shooting tradition is also maintained by Vicki's 17-year-old brother, Sandy, who competed at the DCRA meet as well.

Shooting is one of the few sports where women compete in the same events for the same prizes as men. Vicki wouldn't want this to change.

"In a lot of sports, women's muscles are different from men's," she said. "But in shooting, it's different. It takes a lot of concentration, steady nerves, keen eyes and yes, a bit of muscle."

Political schedule for Ford in doubt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Betty Ford's bout with cancer has cast a question mark over President Ford's immediate and long-range political plans.

Soon after the First Lady underwent surgery for breast cancer Saturday, the President told aides to curtail his public schedule for the next week.

Ford also enlisted Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller to substitute for him on a planned speech-making trip to Utah and California Tuesday through Thursday.

Mrs. Ford is expected to be hospitalized for at least 10 days, and White House aides say it is questionable whether the President will make any out-of-town speeches during that period.

Also placed in question by his wife's illness is Ford's plans to make 25 or more speeches in behalf of Republican candidates in the two weeks prior to next month's elections.

As he entered Bethesda Naval Medical Center Sunday night to visit with Mrs. Ford, the President was asked about his campaign plans.

"We haven't looked beyond next week," he replied.

Then he was asked about a report that his wife's illness has caused him to reconsider his tentative plans to run for a full term as President in 1976. The response was nearly identical: "We haven't thought beyond next week."

White House aides say the President's political schedule will hinge on the pace of Mrs. Ford's recovery. But they acknowledge that even before her hospitalization, Mrs. Ford was cool to the idea of her husband spending many more years in public life.

Don't be ripped off by auto repair shops

Dear Ann Landers: The average citizen is being taken for a sucker because he can't help himself. I refer to being ripped off by automobile repair shops. The Progressive magazine (out of Madison, Wis.) printed a very good article with suggestions on how Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public can protect themselves. I hope you will think it is worth reprinting. Here it is — Midwest Reader:

"At a rundown gas station far from a major interstate highway, a greasy-faced mechanic lowers the hood on a hot '70 Malibu and grins. 'That will be $75, Soldier, plus parts.'

"With out-of-state plates on a downed car, you're at the mercy of the closest repair station. But this doesn't mean you'd get a better deal nearer your own home. It's all a part of 'The Great American Automobile Repair Ripoff.'

Strike by GM workers ends with agreement

ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) — United Auto Workers and officials of the General Motors' Delco-Remy plant here reached a tentative agreement on a new contract early today, at least temporarily ending a strike that threatened to cripple production of GM's 1975 model cars.

UAW Local 662 president Bob Kiner said the agreement was reached at 4:40 a.m. after 43 hours of consecutive bargaining. He said the plant would probably be back at near full operation later today and a ratification vote would be taken Tuesday.

General Motors officials in Detroit said last week the strike, which halted production of ignition and wiring systems for the 1975 cars, could have a severe impact on the company by the middle of this week.

Sacrifice biggest inflation problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Catholic priest, Msgr. Lawrence J. Corcoran, made one of the few offers of personal sacrifice at President Ford's weekend economic summit conference.

Msgr. Corcoran, a delegate representing the National Conference of Catholic Charities, said he would accept a 10 per cent reduction in his income to help the economy if everybody else would do the same.

But it seemed that most everybody else expected somebody else to do the sacrificing.

Homebuilders wanted subsidies, thrift institutions wanted incentives for more savings activity, people on welfare didn't want their programs cut, Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger said defense spending already was cut to the bone, businessmen said price controls wouldn't work for them, labor leaders said

Aid program for poorer nations urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — World Bank President Robert S. McNamara called on the oil-producing countries and the highly industrialized nations today to provide $36 billion over the next five years to assist people in poorer nations.

Addressing the opening session of the annual meeting of governors of the World Bank, he said the increasingly turbulent world economic scene has created a desperate situation for the poorest of the developing countries whose people have per capita incomes of less than $200 per year.

McNamara said the World Bank must increase its lending. The program approved by the bank's executive board for the 1975 fiscal year would provide $5.5 billion, up $1 billion from the fiscal year which ended June 30.

McNamara maintained that the world has not suddenly lost its wealth, even though there is severe inflation, unacceptable unemployment and uncertain growth prospects.

He contended the oil-producing countries have gained huge amounts while the traditionally wealthy nations may be less wealthy than they hoped to be at this time.

It is the poorest nations, he said, that are faced with inflation that penalizes the poor more than the rich.

"Almost every element in the current economic situation has worked to their disadvantage, and has been compounded even further for many of them by the natural disasters of flood, drought and crop failures. These countries need $3 billion to $4 billion more per year in the 1970s," he said.

Saline County's ambulance service problems discussed

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MARSHALL — City officials from Marshall and Salter met with Saline County Ambulance Service owner Kenneth Joe Wasson, also the owner of Pettis County Ambulance Service, Thursday to discuss problems related to ambulance service in Saline county.

Marshall City Councilmen Charles Tryban and David Hartig along with Slater City Manager Richard Ribinski met with Wasson. The number of employees Wasson has in Saline County reportedly was one of the points of discussion.

Wasson had previously agreed to have four employees on duty at all times, but this had been reduced to three, it was reported.

The city representatives also discussed with Wasson a recent incident where a Slater resident was told ambulance assistance would not be available for half-an-hour.

Another meeting with Wasson was scheduled for Oct. 25 to follow up on the ambulance service situation.

Wasson operates a subsidized ambulance service, as an exclusive franchise in most of Saline County.

Patterson will be in county Thursday

Claude Patterson, Republican candidate for Fourth District United States Congressman, will be in Pettis County Thursday, it was announced Monday.

Patterson will visit the LaMonte community building at 10 a.m.; the home of Mrs. Pat Lalla, Route 2, at 3 p.m. and the Hughesville School at 7:30 p.m.

Patterson is expected to elaborate on his recent visit with President Ford at the receptions.

inflation has eroded wages enough. Still there was virtually unanimous recognition by all of the 800 delegates who expressed themselves that somebody is going to have to make some sacrifice if the nation is going to come to grips with its economic problems.

A major challenge facing President Ford is how to distribute the sacrifice.

"Inflation strikes society unevenly," Ford said Saturday. "Government must concern itself with those on whom this burden falls excessively."

He promised a program in the next 10 days that will include help for the jobless and tax adjustments to help those hurt most by inflation.

But how much help, and how to give it, is the second big challenge.

If help for the jobless means a public service employment program, which is likely, then the money must come from somewhere.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary James T. Lynn acknowledged the dilemma in talking about a proposed special program for home mortgage subsidies to help the sagging housing industry.

He said the government would have to turn to the credit markets to borrow the billions that would be required, and that would result in some slight upward push on interest rates, with some inflationary consequences of its own.

Romines cites lack of cooperation by county prosecutor

Better coordination and cooperation in the Pettis County prosecuting attorney's office is needed, Republican candidate Ken Romines said Saturday in an address to Cedar Township voters.

Romines is challenging Democratic incumbent Gary Fleming for the office in the November election.

"The failure of the present prosecutor to communicate properly with the Highway Patrol during the Ozark Music Festival has led to unfortunate testimony before a Senate committee," Romines said.

This, Romines continued, indicated "a lack of desire to prosecute drug cases and statements from the sheriff and police departments in that the prosecutor instructed these departments not to make drug arrests."

The sheriff's department, police department and Highway Patrol, Romines said, must be backed by aggressive prosecution because "we can't ask these men to risk their lives on the streets and then not finish the job in the courtroom."

Local furniture store will close

Biederman's Furniture store, 3200 West Broadway, will be closing and its eight employees out of work by Dec. 1.

Store manager Jack Klug told the Democrat-Capital Monday morning that his instructions are, "to sell out as fast as possible."

The store is presently closed and will reopen for a liquidation sale. Klug said the store has from $160,000 to $175,000 worth of merchandise in stock. "I have to sell out to the walls," Klug said.

The Sedalia Biederman's store is owned by American National Stores, of St. Louis, and is included in the firm's Kansas City district. Missouri stores through the Kansas City district are closing, including stores in St. Louis, Klug said.

Klug also said the company has stores throughout the country and many of these were not able to make it. He noted the Sedalia store was one of the big money makers for the company with a break even sales rate at $43,000 a month. But Klug said the Sedalia store and the rest of this district were not able to "support the money losers."

Sedalia youth is held in jail for resisting arrest

A Sedalia youth was arrested by police Sunday night and remained in jail at noon Monday on charges of resisting arrest and pending an investigation of possession of a controlled substance.

Jackie L. Clark, 17, address unknown, was stopped by police officers at about 11:00 p.m. Sunday, for driving a car with a burned-out headlight.

Police reported that Clark allegedly attempted to dispose of a .38 caliber pistol when he got out of his car. Police then found what was believed to be a controlled substance on his person. After Clark was handcuffed, police said that he attempted to run from them and was captured again.

The case against Clark for resisting arrest was continued Monday morning in municipal court. Pettis County prosecuting attorney Gary Fleming was out of town Monday morning and could not be reached for a decision concerning filing of state charges.

Efforts to contact family unsuccessful

Efforts so far to learn more about the family of Mrs. Reina Morales Buendia, that lives in the hurricane-ravaged Honduran city of Choloma Cortes, have thus far been unsuccessful, it was learned Monday.

Mrs. Robert O'Dell, 404 East 19th, former sister-in-law of Mrs. Buendia, said the family has received no word from Honduran or Red Cross officials regarding her family's condition. Included in the family of Mrs. Buendia, who has been staying with Mrs. O'Dell since Sept. 17, are six children and her mother.

Local efforts to help Mrs. Buendia have been led, Mrs. O'Dell said, by Jim Mathewson, 806 West Broadway, who enlisted the aid of local ham radio operators Kenton Van Vickle and Gentry Patterson.

Attempts at radio communication, Mathewson said, have been stymied because "the whole area was leveled . . . just wiped out. We've been trying to get through, but we haven't been successful in getting the information we want yet."

Local operators also have been unable to contact radio stations near Choloma Cortes, Mathewson said.

A total of $60, earmarked for Honduran hurricane victims, has been collected by the local Red Cross, Mrs. Jane Menefee, executive secretary, said Monday.

Cash contributions are preferred over donations of food and clothing, Mathewson indicated, because "of the time element. It is much easier and faster to send cash down there than perishables and clothing."

Many fields of alfalfa now have a good top growth on them, so the tendency is to make another cutting of hay from it. Don't do it!

As late as the season is now, it is really quite risky to remove this top growth for hay. The root reserves of the alfalfa are now in good order and as long as this growth remains green, the root reserves continue to build up. Removal of this top growth now would mean the root reserves would be utilized in producing new growth as long as the growing weather continues, but it is not likely that regrowth will continue long enough to replenish the root reserves before freezing occurs.

The result then can be some serious losses due to winter killing of the crowns as a result of the weakened reserves. Some utilization of the current growth can be made by limited grazing — do not graze shorter than six to eight inches. Heavy grazing will have the same effect as mowing would have. Once freezing occurs and the tops are killed and they can offer some good winter grazing, as these dried tops are highly palatable.

Cattle are cheap

When the cost exceeds return, one good management decision might be to not do some things to increase gains on cattle. Perhaps your most important of these is creep feeding. Using today's feed cost the creep gain is approximately $.50 a pound or more where special rations are being used.

Lick tanks may be best put off in the corner and let the weeds hide them until cattle prices improve.

Most any feed a cow eats will provide sufficient protein for the dry cow. Cows calving in the fall need more protein.

Farmstead planning

Farmstead planning can be useful for facility arrangement when you want to allow space for future changes, increase efficiency and add convenience. A building in the wrong place is a mistake and it can be a costly one in terms of reaching an efficient and pleasant farmstead. It's best to plan on paper where a mistake can be easily changed.

Preparing a farmstead plan takes time and effort but it can be an interesting and rewarding experience. If you would like to purchase copy of a handbook, it is available through your local University of Missouri Extension Center.

Store vegetables
Some vegetables can be stored without refrigeration to extend the season. Proper handling and storage conditions are important.

Crops such as potatoes, carrots, beets, parsnips, cabbage, onions and winter squash may be kept for several months, while tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers and snap beans can be kept only for a shorter period.

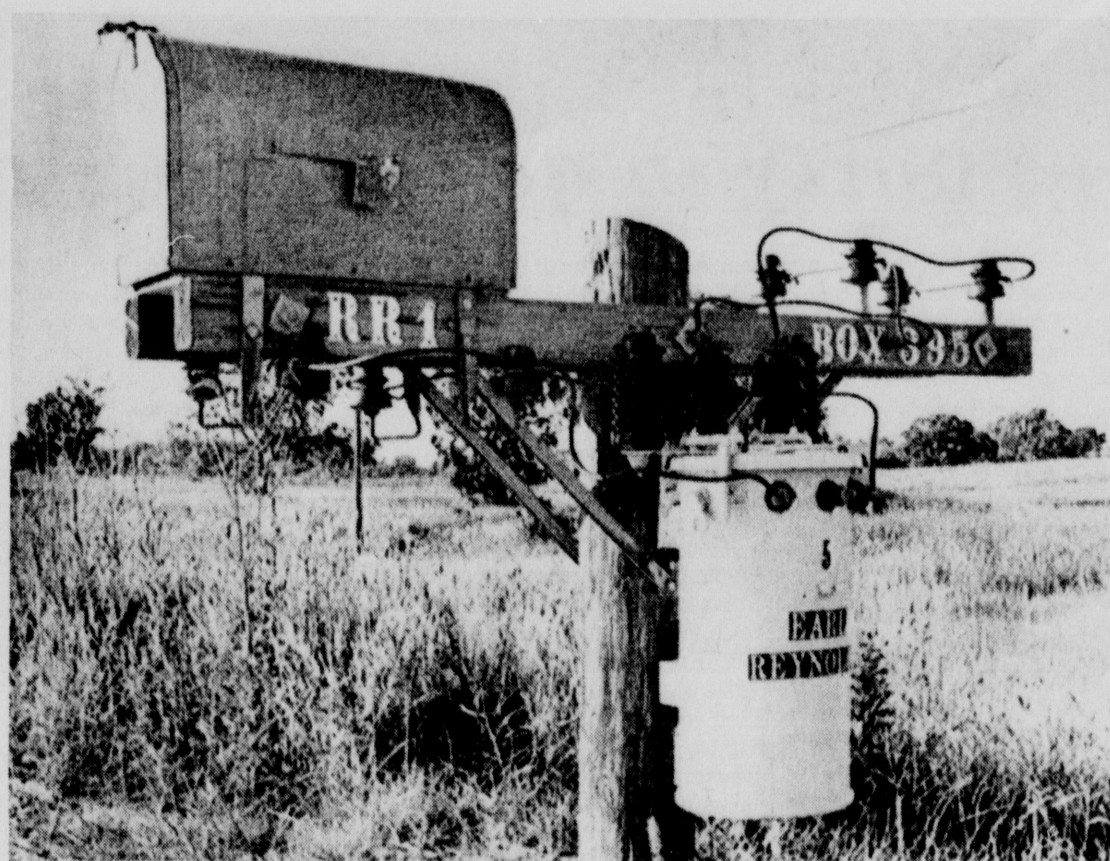

Vegetables requiring temperatures of 35 to 40 degrees with high humidity for storage are potatoes, carrots, beets, turnips and leaf crops such as cabbage and Chinese cabbage.

If only a small quantity of produce needs to be stored, outdoor cone-shaped storage units may be the answer. To make the storage unit, first spread a layer of straw, leaves or other litter on the ground. Stack the vegetables in a cone-shaped pile in the center of this area. Cover the pile of vegetables with a layer of straw, and then cover the straw with three to four inches of soil. Firm the soil by tapping with the back of the shovel to make the cone of soil waterproof and to prevent erosion.

To store tomatoes, bring them indoors just before the first killing frost. Harvest the large, mature green tomatoes for storage. Small immature tomatoes will not ripen well. Wrap the tomatoes in newspaper, and stack them in shallow trays no more than two layers deep. Green tomatoes will ripen in about two weeks if kept at 65 to 70 degrees. At 55 degrees they will ripen in about four weeks. Do not keep them cooler.

Green peepers may be stored in the same way for about two weeks. Since they are more subject to drying, cover them loosely with plastic to reduce moisture loss.

Sweet potatoes may be kept until April or May. They should be dug before frost and cured at about 80 degrees for 10 days. After that time, store them at temperatures between 55 and 60 degrees. Sweet potatoes are subject to chilling and will begin to rot if kept at temperatures below 50 degrees.

Market outlook

Hog prices are expected to weaken into November with the low in low to mid 30's for barrows and gilts. Prices should strengthen in December and for 1975 a price near $40 seems most likely at this time.

Cattle prices are expected to be under pressure for several years. However, fed cattle prices may be relatively high as compared to cows, feeder cattle, etc., in 1975. Because we still do not know whether we will get many non-fed steers and heifers into the steaks and roast trade, we do not know what our supply of block beef will be and without this information it is only a guess at best what the price of choice steers will be in 1975. Our guess now is for an average of $45 or better if consumers will not accept the non-fed beef in relatively large quantity. If they do buy the non-fed beef as steaks and roasts, then a price of around $40 seems most likely for choice steers in 1975.

Feed costs
A pound of pork should be produced with about 4.4 pounds of feed, 3.7 pounds of grain and .7 pounds of protein. Corn price today is about 6.5 cents per pound ($3.64 per bushel) and SOM about 8.0 cents per pound ($160 per ton). Today's feed cost per 100 pounds of gain would then be in the neighborhood of $29.65.

Records showed an average variable cost (other than feed) of $6.80 per cwt. (including labor). If we add the $6.80 to today's estimated feed costs, we have total variable costs of $36.45. That is just about the top price for hogs now. The above costs do include labor, but some of the cost items which made up the $6.80 last year are surely higher now.

Extension moves

The County Extension office is now located in the Securities Building, 1806 West 11th Street. The telephone number remains the same and we should be moved into our new quarters by Wednesday.

blames President Ford's policies for his underdog status in the Kansas senatorial race.

Democrat Rep. William R. Roy has been leading in the race in the traditionally Republican state and that was mentioned when the two candidates appeared Sunday on the CBS program "Face the Nation."

Dole was asked if the President was responsible for his troubles.

"I think so," Dole replied. He said Kansas Republicans were encouraged when Ford took office, but "along came the pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon and amnesty."

"I really don't need any more help of that kind before November."

Asked if Ford was going to Kansas to help in the campaign, Dole said there were plans at one time for such a trip but now "whether he comes to Kansas is a decision that hasn't been made."

Roy called attention to Dole's selection as national Republican chairman on the recommendation of Nixon.

Dole said there were three chief issues in the campaign: "The rise and fall of Richard M. Nixon," Dole's record as a senator, and his role as national GOP chairman.

Roy's forces are waging "a Watergate-style campaign," the senator asserted, but "we're going to be vindicated at the polls."

Roy said he never brings up Watergate in his campaign, but other people keep asking him about it.

"Many people think Senator Dole, as Republican national chairman, knew or should have known about Watergate. I have no reason to believe the Senator Dole knew ... whether he should have known" depends on the inner processes of the Republican party.

Dole interrupted and said those statements were typical of a Watergate-style campaign. Roy replied, "I never said I thought he knew, I said 'many people.'"

Roy said the issue for the voter was "which man do I trust more? Which one will do the most for Kansas?"

Dole said he was confident the people will choose him because of his "service, seniority, integrity and understanding of the problems." He said it was "a classic contest between a known conservative, Bob Dole, and a known liberal, Bill Roy."

Roy said "The Republican party in Kansas has been captured by the reactionary right. We're leading because many in its progressive wing are supporting me."

Federal gasoline tax hike considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special tax on gasoline, once rejected by President Ford, is gaining favor in the administration and may be a major proposal in the program Ford sends to Congress to fight inflation.

A White House source said Ford is considering raising the federal tax on gasoline by anywhere from 10 to 20 cents a gallon.

"We know the public won't be happy about this and we can't be sure Congress will go along," the source said. "But we think it's something that would help."

Ford closed his economic summit conference Saturday with a pledge to send anti-inflation recommendations to Congress within 10 days. A higher gasoline tax is being promoted within the administration on grounds it would discourage gasoline consumption while raising new tax revenue to finance federal programs, such as public service employment.

The higher gasoline tax was first advocated by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, but met with resistance from Ford.

However, a White House spokesman confirmed Sunday the idea has been resurrected as "one of many ideas under study."

Other elements of the economic program are expected to include help for the housing industry in the form of mortgage interest subsidies, budget cuts, a public service employment program and some tax relief for groups hurt worst by inflation.

Canadian restrictions threaten farm exports

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department expert said today that a new import quota system for livestock and meat shipped into Canada threatens to take a $100-million bite from U.S. farm exports.

Robert R. Anlauf of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said further the quotas could "further aggravate an already difficult marketing situation" between the two countries.

Canada had been tightening import restrictions, particularly for cattle and beef for some time. Then, last April 9, the government flatly banned imports of slaughter cattle and beef unless they were certified as having never been exposed to the synthetic growth hormone, DES.

Canada later announced a new quota system beginning Aug. 12 and said that it would run for a full year. Meantime, a system of DES certification was agreed upon so that U.S. cattle and beef could begin entering Canada again this fall.

Anlauf, writing in a weekly issue of Foreign Agriculture, said the Canadian quotas apply also to other foreign suppliers such as Australia and New Zealand and thus could cause diversions of beef into the United States, the only major market where severe import curbs have not been put into effect.

Last week the American National Cattlemen's Association called for a complete embargo on imports of beef into the United States.

"Until other beef importing nations reopen their borders and absorb some of the world's beef surplus, U.S. cattlemen have no alternative but to insist upon an embargo on beef imports," Gordon Van Vleck, association president, said in Denver.

In his analysis today, Anlauf said Canada apparently wants to roll back U.S. cattle and beef imports to historical levels but fails to take into consideration what has happened lately regarding shifts in Canadian beef grading standards.

Anlauf said a new Canadian beef grading system in October 1972 resulted in a severe decrease in the supply of animals in lower-grade categories. As a result, animals that had previously been mostly in the top grades destined for hotel and restaurant consumption were discounted heavily and graded in lower categories.

"To meet the new requirements, Canadian cattle feeders shortened their feeding period to produce animals with less (fat) marbling and leaner beef," Anlauf said.

But, he said, the hotel and restaurant trade continued to demand the previously higher grades of beef. That helped prompt a large volume of U.S. grain-fed cattle and beef into the Canadian market.

The current quota system permits 82,835 live slaughter cattle from the United States to enter Canada during the year, plus 17.9 million pounds of fresh and frozen dressed beef. By comparison, in calendar 1973 about 185,000 head of U.S. cattle and 35 million pounds of meat moved into the Canadian market.

Anlauf said that based on trends "U.S. livestock exports to Canada will lose some $113 million in total sales for the 12 months the quota is in effect."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department plans to issue soon a preview of what may happen in the broiler chicken industry during the first quarter of next year.

Officials said the report "will

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department planned to issue today a monthly report showing how farm price averages shaped up as of Sept. 15 compared with mid-August. The report also will compare prices farmers pay out to meet production expenses.

Lightning kills St. Louis man, injures two others

ST. LOUIS (AP)—One man was killed and two persons were injured by lightning when a severe thunderstorm roared through the St. Louis area Saturday.

Jeffrey Bevitt, 23, of Belleville, Ill., became the seventh area resident struck and killed by lightning this year when he was hit as members of his men's league football team ran for shelter Saturday afternoon in Belleville, authorities said.

Team members said they had been practicing when the storm moved in, causing them to seek cover. No one else was injured, authorities said.

Walter Harloe, 42, of Manchester, Mo., and his 12-year-old son Steven were struck and injured as they waited under an umbrella for a high school football game to resume at a west St. Louis County high school, police said.

Harloe was hospitalized in poor condition with third-degree burns over most of his body, while his son was reported in fair condition.

Five persons in the St. Louis area were killed by lightning May 29, four of them with one bolt. A sixth person was struck two days later during another storm.

The storm Saturday, which left nearly 1½ inches of rain in the area, knocked down power lines and tree branches with winds of up to 45 miles per hour, authorities said. Power outages in about 2,500 area homes were reported but but service was restored by early Sunday, according to electric company spokesman.

Kennedy decision leaves party in quandry

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — By bowing out of the 1976 presidential race, Sen. Edward Kennedy made the right decision for himself, for his troubled family, and for a nation that has had quite enough of ugliness. But his decision leaves the Democratic party like an anthill just toppled by a tractor. Behold the beautiful scramble!

Kilpatrick

If the senator had decided to seek the nomination, he would have invited one of the most bitter campaigns in American political history. It would have been worse than Cleveland-Blaine in 1884, worse than Smith-Hoover in 1928.

No observer would deny that Kennedy is widely admired. He could have had his party's nomination for the asking. It may not be so well understood that the senator is widely hated, too. If he is an object of fervent adulation, he is also an object of passionate invective. His bid for the White House, had he formally announced, would have burst a boil of virulent hostility. Everything would have come flooding forth, from Papa Joe to Chappaquiddick. Kennedy's wife could not possibly have been spared; as a prospective first lady, her medical record would have had the Eagleton treatment. Such a campaign would have left the country battered and bruised. This we are thankfully spared.

By 1980 or 1984, Kennedy still will be in a position to seek the presidency, and by that time the passions may have subsided. Meanwhile, he can afford to bide his time as an active legislator and potent fundraiser.

What, now for the Democrats? Within the party, the senator has stood like a Caesar. He bestrode the party's narrow world like a Colossus, while petty men walked under his huge legs and peeped about. With Kennedy's withdrawal, the Democrats' dilemma becomes glaringly apparent. Where could they find a winner?

They have one man, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who might give Gerald Ford a good run for the money in 1976. Jackson will then be 64, but that is no particular disadvantage against Ford at 63. On paper, at least, Jackson has fine credentials. His trouble, at this distance, is that he will have real problems in winning his party's nomination in the first place.

Jackson's difficulties became evident in the Florida primary of 1972. He worked doggedly in the pursuit of delegates, but the presence of George Wallace made his effort vain. Wallace is still around. The governor of Alabama lives, eats, and breathes on the excitement of running for office. Under the 1976 convention rules, which prohibit the practice of "winner take all," Wallace will wind up with plenty of delegates. If by some bizarre stroke of fate, Wallace won just enough delegates to claim the Democratic nomination, the party would collapse. It would go the way of the one-horse shay. The prospect may be entrancing, but the prospect is hardly realistic.

Who, then? The happy warrior, Hubert Humphrey, is out of it. Sen. Edmund Muskie, on the record, has no great appeal. Such leftovers from 1972 as Harold Hughes and Fred Harris have made their exits from the stage. What ever became of John Lindsay? There were boomlets in 1972 for Shirley Chisholm, Sam Yorty, and Florida's Gov. Reubin Askew. There is not much boom left in any of them.

Are there fresh figures? Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota would like the nomination, but Mondale's record of ultra-liberalism would cast him as another McGovern. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas is an attractive possibility, but he has no national recognition. Such junior senators as Lawton Chiles, Sam Nunn, Adlai Stevenson, and William Hathaway are vice presidential saplings, not presidential timber. Birch Bayh of Indiana is a 100-to-one shot. Could the party make peace with Clean Gene McCarthy, the peerless first baseman? It seems exceedingly doubtful.

Kennedy was the Democratic party's greatest asset and greatest liability, too. Within a national convention, he could have produced the same unity among party workers that is shared by suckers on the back of a shark. With his departure, the Democrats are left with a school of small fish, and in the prospect of Governor Wallace, with a small but uncomfortable whale.

Athletics: corrupter of youth

WASHINGTON — My column about Moses Malone being lured into professional basketball right out of high school provoked a torrent of mail, pro and con; that mail provokes me to say another word or two about the role of athletics in corrupting and debauching this society.

Rowan

Let it be clear at the outset that I'm a sports nut. Give a bunch of guys a ball, a puck, some gloves, cleated shoes, and I'll watch 'em go at it. But I cannot stomach either the blatant hypocrisy of the coaches of "amateur" athletics or the callous greed of professional scouts, agents and coaches.

They all pretend to teach young men sportsmanship, teamwork, courage. What they teach mostly is the art of corruption, of how to deal under the table.

Some letter-writers called me "crazy" for suggesting that the tall, talented Virginia schoolboy, Malone, should have gotten in some college training before signing a multimillion-dollar pro basketball contract. They point out that not all young men are cut out to go to college — or that any poor boy like Malone would stupid not to grab that moola when it's offered.

They seem to miss the point that the great athletic exploiters don't care what a big, tall boy's intellectual potential is. They are out after flesh, muscle, brawn, reflexes during whatever period that young man can perform. What happens to the kid over the long haul is of no consequence to the recruiters, agents, coaches, team owners.

Witness the sickening fact that the flesh peddlers (agents) and buyers (coaches and recruiters) have already moved down into JUNIOR high school with their under-the-table offers of cash, cars or whatever else is required to lock up a talented athlete.

Of the many letters agreeing with my Moses Malone column, the most substantive came from Stephen Horn, president of Long Beach State University in California, an institution that has been punished by the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) for recruiting and other violations.

"When I came here as president four years ago," Horn wrote, "I discovered some of the aspects you object to — students who were not working toward degrees but were, rather, taking simply the appropriate number of units so that they could play football or basketball."

Horn spoke to the Athletic Directors of America in June. He warned them that "all too many of our campuses are — or seem on the verge of — become farm teams for professional athletics." He deplored "the annual minuet" where coaches and agents descend upon homes and apartments, "frequently those of the very poor inhabited by parents with little education, but with athletically-talented youngsters," to drop enticing goodies "on the largely bare kitchen table."

Why does this corrupt madness continue — even worsen? Because there is no "individual" responsibility and punishment. A coach or recruiter is caught in illegal activities. The athletes at this school are punished (including those in sports unrelated to that coach) and the school is penalized. But the offending coach can take a job at another school and go unscathed.

Horn wants the individual offender penalized — up to the point of barring him from coaching at any other NCAA institution. That surely would impress upon coaches a new sense of responsibility and integrity.

Horn also notes the increasing number of "agents" who grab students even in junior high and seek to divert them from amateur status because of the lucrative cut the agent can get.

"I believe the states should begin to license such agents and require disclosure of their contracts (both written and oral) when they are entered into with any student-athlete who has eligibility remaining in high school or college. If such a contract were not disclosed, it should be unenforceable and heavy financial penalties should be levied against both the professional team involved and the agent," Horn said.

Pending such licensing, the Long Beach president expressed hope "that basketball would show the self-restraint in swooping down to prey on college campuses which has been shown by professional football."

Add the high school campus to that and this observer will say, "Amen!"

Awaiting the results of economic summit

President Ford convened his economic summit conference in the midst of a growing sense of uneasiness that about the nation's financial condition.

The object of the summit was to hear a wide range of viewpoints about the nation's economic problems, particularly inflation, which would lead (1) to an agreement on the causes of the problem; and (2) to a consensus on what action should be taken to meet said problems.

If nothing else, the summit has certainly succeeded in presenting a cross-section of opinion. The economists ran the gamut from the conservatism of Milton Friedman and Alan Greenspan to the socialist views of John Kenneth Galbraith and his school. George Meany roasted the administration's policies, Arthur Burns defended them, a NOW spokesman blasted the conference for not including more women, and one young man said the Arab oil crisis was a plot hatched by Nelson Rockefeller.

Whether all of this will succeed in clarifying the problem or simply turn out to be an exercise in building an economic Tower of Babel will be seen when the final summit report is released in a few days.

While there are many factors contributing to the world's economic problems, certainly one of the major ones is the extortion practiced by the Mideast oil-producing nations in the form of staggering price increases for petroleum. The realization of the threat this poses to every industrial nation of the world was behind the strong warnings Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger issued to the Arab oil nations last week.

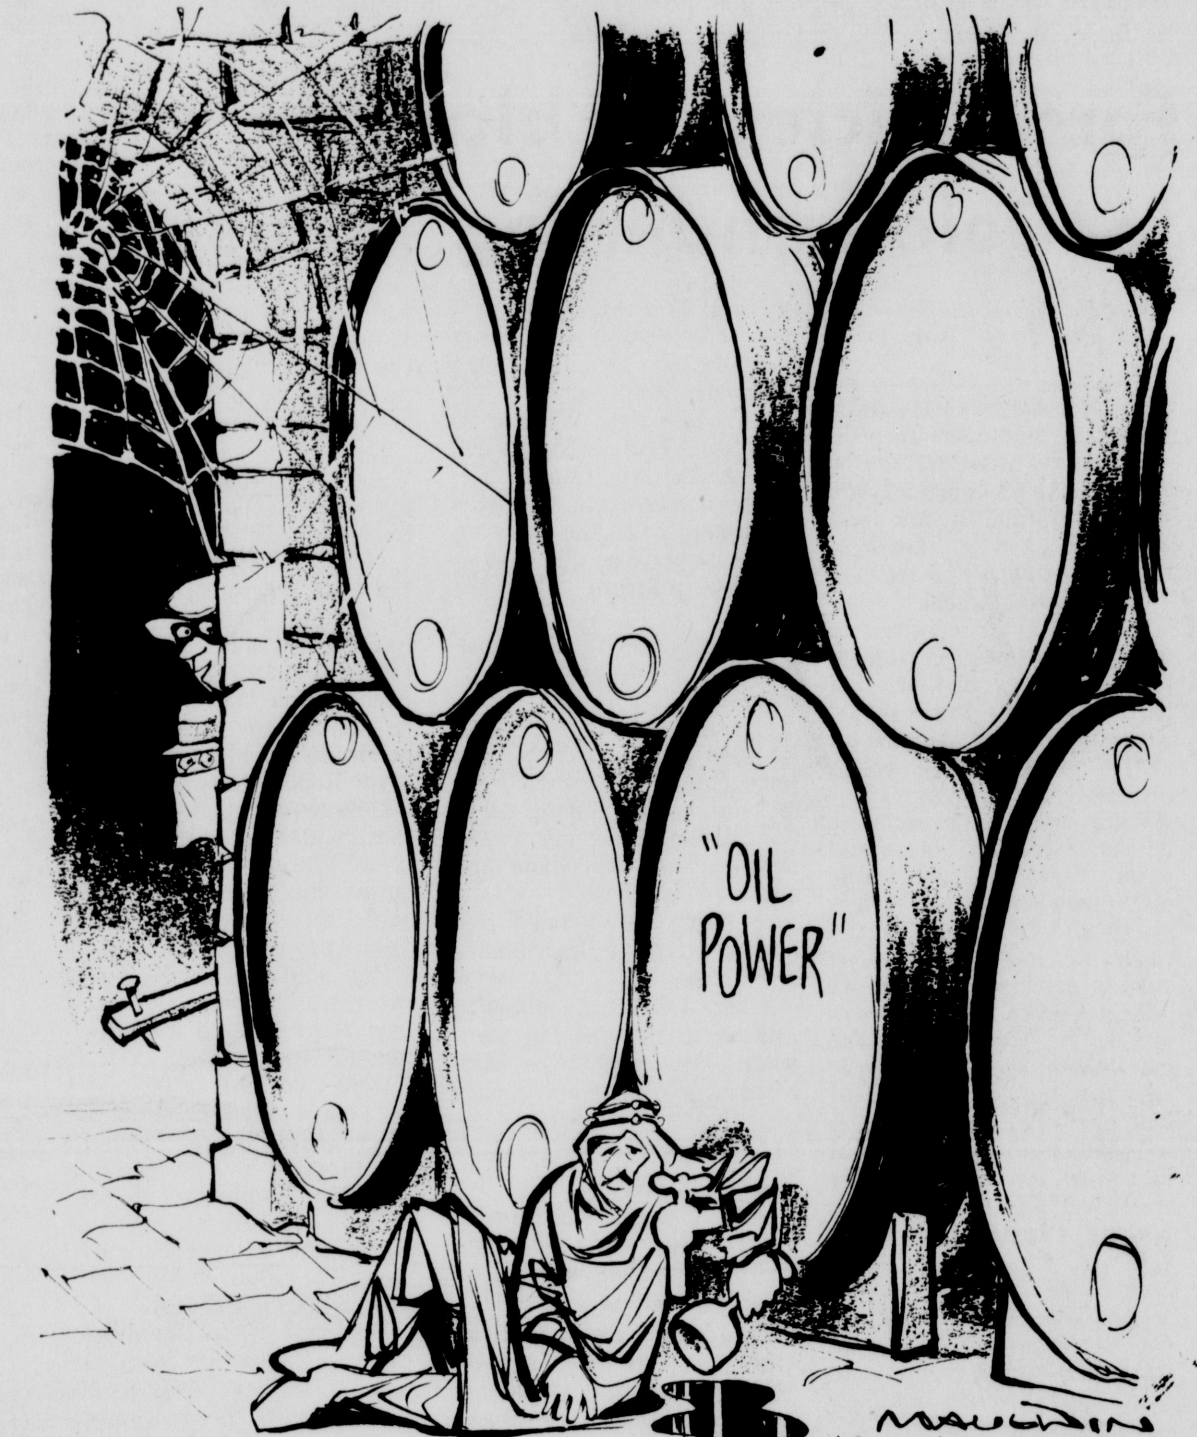

After all has been said and done at the economic summit, it is up to the President and his advisers, with the help of Congress, to forge a battle plan for the nation. Every American will anxiously be awaiting his marching orders.

Kennedy kidnaping threat was bogus

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The public has yet to learn the full story behind the kidnaping scare that brought more than 60 Secret Service agents racing from all points of the country two weeks ago to protect the late Sen. Robert Kennedy's children. Here are the exclusive details:

The Secret Service's duties are strictly defined by law and do not include guarding the progeny of deceased senators.

Yet for one full week, on orders from the White House, the agents provided emergency, round-the-clock protection for the Kennedy kids. Before the affair was over, the bodyguard service was also extended to a nephew, Christopher Lawford, son of actor Peter Lawford and Patricia Kennedy.

One agent, standing watch outside a Harvard University blowout attended by one of the Kennedy boys, even suffered the indignity of having to duck a urinary sprinkle. A raucous party raged inside, and one of the partygoers urinated out the window.

The same agent later stood by in astonishment as local police descended upon the scene and barged past him into the building to quiet the reveling students.

The kidnaping threat, based upon a third-hand tip from a police informant in the Boston area, turned out to be bogus. By conservative estimate, the false alarm cost the taxpayers about $126,000.

The bizarre affair began on unlucky Friday, Sept. 13. Some shady characters, according to the tip, had been talking about kidnaping David and Robert Kennedy Jr., both of whom attend Harvard.

The information was relayed to the FBI, which immediately launched an investigation. Meanwhile, Ethel Kennedy, the anxious mother, was alerted. Her first thought, of course, was to protect her children. She knew from experience that the Secret Service has the world's best bodyguards, so she made an urgent request for federal protection.

Secret Service Director Stuart Knight, knowing he had no authority to protect the Kennedy children, agonized with his associates over the request. He personally drove out to the Kennedy estate in McLean, Va., to explain to Ethel how his hands were tied.

But he was overruled by his boss, Treasury Secretary William Simon, who took up the kidnaping threat with the White House. Back came word from presidential counselor Phil Buchen: protect the Kennedy kids.

Simon ordered the Secret Service into action on Saturday, Sept. 14. Then he phoned Ethel Kennedy to reassure her.

My associate Joe Spear spoke with Simon, who said he had frequently been threatened with physical harm and, therefore, had "empathy for people in public life." Considering the suffering the Kennedy family has been through, he said, "this was one of the easier decisions I have ever made."

Word was received on Wednesday, Sept. 18, that the supposed kidnapers really had their eye on Ethel Kennedy's nephew, Christopher Lawford, who attends Tufts University in Medford, Mass. So a protective detail was dispatched to cover the Lawford boy.

The intensive FBI investigation, meanwhile, turned up no substantial leads. So about 4:30 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 20, the Secret Service protection was lifted.

WATERGATE TACTICS: A holdover from ex-President Nixon's infamous "Attack Group" is using Watergate tactics to destroy a white civil servant who has sought to help the most downtrodden ghetto blacks.

The holdover is Edward Failor, now in charge of the Commerce Department's statistics, who controls a $100-million operation and 7,000 employees.

This was his reward for undeviating loyalty to the "Attack Group," headed by convicted White House aide Charles Colson. The group's purpose was to discredit 1972 Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern by unscrupulous but legal means.

Failor was first installed in a federal mine safety job which, according to the General Accounting Office, he fouled up. He was quietly moved over to the Commerce Department over the objections of professionals who considered him totally unqualified.

Internal memos show he is now using salami-style tactics to cut up a Census Bureau official, John Casserly, who has been seeking ways to get 1.8 million "missing Americans" to take part in the 1980 census.

These are the most depressed ghetto blacks who were not counted in 1970. Because they represent 7.7 per cent of all blacks, the entire black community lost millions in federal and state aid based on census statistics.

The memos show that Casserly took steps to get these "missing Americans" on the census rolls. For his efforts, he was summoned before Failor and was told his proposal was "stupid."

His voice rising, Failor said the proposal was a "huge mistake" and demanded to know whether Casserly had "any problems."

"I have no problems," replied Casserly.

"You may well have in the future," shot back Failor.

This turned out to be prophetic. Failor and his census chief, Vincent Barabba, a Nixon campaign pollster in 1972, began giving Casserly a bad time. His staff was slashed, and he came under sudden investigation.

FOOTNOTE: Failor conceded he called the Casserly proposal "stupid," but only because it was full of false statements. He admitted Casserly is in trouble because of his proposal, but said this is purely because it shows "bad judgment." Both Failor and Barabba defended their policies toward the blacks.

Defense shines again

Chiefs come to life in 2nd half

HOUSTON (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs relied on the big play artistry of their defense for a 17-7 victory over Houston Sunday, and it was cornerback Emmitt Thomas who provided the first and last strokes in the Oilers' downfall.

"Offense creates excitement but you win with defense," Chiefs Coach Hank Stram said after Kansas City had capitalized on four fourth-quarter Oilers turnovers, including two interceptions by Thomas.

Thomas' first interception came early in the fourth quarter and was a masterpiece. Houston was leading 7-3 and had marched to the Kansas City 37.

Houston quarterback Lynn Dickey uncorked a pass into the end zone for Ken Burrough but Thomas made a diving interception, and the Chiefs' offense drove 80 yards for its only sustained drive of the game to go ahead 10-7 with 7:02 left in the game.

"The biggest play was Thomas' interception in the end zone," Stram said. "It was obvious the defense did its job but the offense showed some spark when it had to."

Houston scored in the third quarter on a one yard dive by rookie Ronnie Coleman and Kansas City countered with a 35-yard field goal by Jan Stenerud.

But the Oilers fell apart in the fourth quarter, losing possession on two fumbles and Thomas' two pass interceptions.

Dickey fumbled with 3:48 left in the game and Chief defensive tackle Tom Keating recovered at Houston's four-yard line. Chief quarterback Mike Livingston passed to Morris Stroud with 2:41 to play for the clinching touchdown.

The Oilers had one more shot at the Chiefs end zone, but Thomas again intercepted a Dickey pass with 47 seconds left in the game and the Chiefs ran out the clock.

Thomas, who now has four interceptions in three games, gave safety Mike Sensibaugh an assist for his key interception in the end zone.

"Mike put pressure on Dickey and made him throw the ball higher than we would have wanted to," Thomas said. "That gave me time to adjust. It was a good pass. I just got lucky."

The Chiefs made only 20 yards rushing, but Livingston completed 20 of 26 passes for 167 yards, including 10 passes to his running back Ed Podolak. Kansas City had a minus two yards on the ground in the first half.

New England Patriots keep record unblemished

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

It used to be that a visit to New England was a breather for a National Football League club. For the Baltimore Colts, though, it couldn't come at a worse time.

But Howard Schnellenberger can breathe easier. He won't be making next Sunday's trip.

The Baltimore coach was fired Sunday, right after his young and puncheon team had suffered its third straight loss, bowing 30-10 to Philadelphia. Robert Isray, president of the Colts, named Joe Thomas, the club's vice president and general manager, as the new sideline pilot.

So it's Thomas who's going to be gasping when he gets a look at what's happening up in New England. His first job is to try and knock off the National Football League's astonishing Patriots.

It won't be easy. They've been knocking off everybody in sight so far.

They started at the top, slugging the defending Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins 34-24. A fluke, everyone said.

Then they whipped the New York Giants 28-20. An upset, everyone said, but not much of one.

Sunday they beat the Los Angeles Rams 20 to 14.

In Sunday's other games, St. Louis clubbed Cleveland 29-7, Oakland shut out Pittsburgh 17-0, Miami had to struggle to pull out a 28-21 victory over San Diego, Buffalo beat the New York Jets 16-12, New Orleans nipped Atlanta 14-13, the Giants upset Dallas 14-6, Cincinnati nuzzled San Francisco 21-3, Green Bay edged Detroit 21-19, Kansas City turned back Houston 17-7 and Minnesota struggled past Chicago 11-7.

Tonight, Washington hosts the Denver Broncos.

Joe Lavender returned an intercepted pass 37 yards for a touchdown. Tom Sullivan scored on runs of 28 and three yards and Tom Dempsey kicked three field goals in the Eagles' rout of Baltimore, which scored on Jones' 22-yard pass to Glenn Doughty and Toni Linhart's field goal.

Patriots 20, Rams 14 . . .

Two touchdown passes by Jim Plunkett and two field goals by John Smith sent Los Angeles into the loss column and at least one Patriots fan to dreaming about Super Bowls.

Tony Baker's one-yard burst gave the Rams the game's first touchdown. But the Patriots got it right back with Plunkett passing to Darryl Stingley for 20 yards, then New England moved in front to stay on a 39-yard field goal by Smith early in the second half.

Smith whipped it 13-7 with a 23-yard field goal late in the third quarter and, at the start of the fourth period, Plunkett hit Randy Vataha on a 21-yard scoring play. John Hadl's 36-yard pass to Lance Rentzel with about four minutes to play gave the Rams their first score.

Raiders 17, Steelers 0

"They beat our butts, it's that simple," Joe Gilliam said of the Raiders following Pittsburgh's first scoreless game since 1964.

Ken Stabler passed 19 yards to Cliff Branch for one Raider touchdown and plunged in from one yard out for the other one.

Dolphins 28, Chargers 21

Trailing 21-7 in the fourth quarter, Bob Griese calmly marched Miami to three touchdowns, preventing the Chargers from pulling off their second straight big upset. Jim Kiick's five-yard scoring run with 1:03 left boosted the Packers over the Lions.

Griese completed 14 of 27 passes for 248 yards, and it was his accuracy in the waning minutes that kept the Dolphins hopes alive.

Bills 16, Jets 12

Jim Braxton's 21-yard touchdown run, eight plays after Greg Gantt's 25-yard punt into the teeth of a 30-mile-an-hour wind, carried Buffalo past the Jets.

Saints 14, Falcons 13

New Orleans' Jess Phillip punched over from eight yards out just after Alex Price recovered a fumble by the Falcons' Haskel Stanback on the eight with about five minutes to play.

Giants 14, Cowboys 6

Bill Arnsparger earned his first victory as head coach of the Giants, who beat Dallas on two touchdowns within 64 seconds in the second quarter—rookie Doug Kotar's two-yard run and Norm Snead's 14-yard pass to Joe Dawkins.

Bengals 21, 49ers 3

Cincinnati completed just two passes to Isaac Curtis. The first went 22 yards for a touchdown and the second was a 48-yard bomb which set up the Bengals' second score, a 14-yard run by Anderson.

Packers 21, Lions 19

"Having the goal posts 10 yards further back this year doesn't bother me at all," said Green Bay's Chester Marcol, whose 22-yard field goal with 1:03 left boosted the Packers over the Lions.

Vikings 11, Bears 7

Fran Tarkenton's 25th career touchdown pass, an 11-yarder to Stu Voigt, and Paul Krause's 63rd career interception highlighted Minnesota's victory.

Colts axe Schnellenberger; Joe Thomas to guide team

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Thomas, who insists the job was thrust upon him, is the new head coach of the National Football League's Baltimore Colts.

The 53-year-old Thomas inherited the job Sunday when Colts' owner Robert Isray fired Howard Schnellenberger in the Colts' dressing room after Baltimore lost to the Philadelphia Eagles 30-10.

Thomas already is vice president and general manager of the Colts, and the architect of the Colts' rebuilding program. He has been an assistant at Baltimore, the Los Angeles Rams and in the Canadian Football League, but never a head coach.

Thomas built his football reputation as the personnel chief of first the Minnesota Vikings, and later the Miami Dolphins. He built the expansion Vikings into a division champion and Super Bowl participant and played a large part in construction of the Dolphins, NFL champions the past two seasons.

The 40-year-old Schnellenberger left as an assistant to Don Shula at Miami to take the Colts' job Feb. 14, 1973, and was in the second year of a three-year contract. His first Colts' team finished 4-10 and tied for last place in the American Conference East of the NFL. This year's team is winless in three games.

Two minutes before the game against the Eagles ended, Isray marched into the press box at Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia and told a startled Thomas that he was the new head coach.

Isray then rushed to the Colts' dressing room where he first informed the players of Schnellenberger's ouster.

Schnellenberger was the last to know.

Thomas said he had no choice but to accept the job. "There was no way of refusing it," Thomas insisted. "I was startled by it all. 'I'll have to sit down with the players and the assistant coaches and get things on an even keel.'"

The players were virtually unanimous in support of Schnellenberger.

"It is shocking and ridiculous and no reason for it," said quarterback Marty Domres. "Howard Schnellenberger is an excellent coach and this change is not going to help us at all."

Utz closes in on IMCA sprint title

(Democrat-Capital Service)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — Sedalia sprint car driver Bill Utz won the Oklahoma State Fair three-race sprint car series championship here over the weekend and moved closer to his first International Motor Contest Association title with a one first, a second and a third.

Utz entered the series with a 90-point lead over Larry Kirkpatrick, Wood River, Ill. Although official point standings won't be released until later this week, Utz maintains a slim margin with only two races to go.

The veteran Sedalia driver won Friday night's race, finishing ahead of Jim McElreath and Kirkpatrick. Saturday's race went to defending IMCA champ Thad Doshier, who beat Utz' Dean Hathman-Pat O'Connor Chevy-powered racer out of the fourth turn on the final lap.

Kirkpatrick placed third. Kirkpatrick earned the pole position in Sunday's finale, and sped to victory ahead of Ralph Blackett and Utz, who earned second and third respectively.

The IMCA season closes Oct. 26-27 with a two-race program at Shreveport, La.

Metcalf, Cards shock Cleveland Browns with third win of year

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "I think maybe this time we're real," a pleased Terry Metcalf of the St. Louis Cardinals said.

And the Cleveland Browns were in no mood to argue Sunday after Metcalf's flying feet and those of Mel Gray left them with a 29-7 loss in the National Football League.

Metcalf, a whirling dervish, shocked the Browns with a 94-yard kickoff return for a touchdown opening the second half.

Cleveland thereupon retaliated only to have Gray apply a knockout punch by catching a 68-yard touchdown pass.

"The big play was the bomb," acknowledged Brown's Coach Nick Skorich, who referred to Gray's reception of a Jim Hart aerial.

"The kickoff return hurt," Skorich conceded, "but we were back in the game after a couple of plays. Then that took the starch out of us."

Cleveland trailed 7-0 when Metcalf fielded the third quarter kickoff and headed for the right sideline.

Apparently penned up at that point, he veered to the middle and soon left a stream of would-be tacklers strewn in his path.

A final Cleveland defender had a shot at the Card speedster at the Browns' 25, but Metcalf again swerved and crossed the goal line standing.

Cleveland quickly cast Greg Pruitt in an aerial role and closed to 14-7 on Pruitt's 55-yard halfback pass to Gloster Richardson.

But Hart, who completed only four of 11 passes, went long on the Cards' next play and was on target to Gray, a former collegiate sprinter.

A 44-yard Jim Bakken field goal then followed Metcalf's punt return to the Browns' 47 and Donny Anderson's one-yard touchdown run capped a 22-point St. Louis third quarter.

At least partially echoing Skorich on the effect of the Hart-Gray bomb was Browns quarterback Mike Phipps.

"You can't really say that was the game," maintained Phipps, who was earlier victimized by Norm Thompson's 56-yard touchdown run with an intercepted pass, "but so many big plays went against us."

"We talked about it at the half and decided to try it," said Hart, who threw the bomb. "I was open and Jim put the ball there," Gray said.

The Cards keep the lead in the NFL's National Conference East with a 3-0 record while the Browns dropped to 1-2 in the American Conference Central.

Add security for Brock, McBride

CHICAGO (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals have taken added security measures to protect two players, outfielders Lou Brock and Bake McBride, whose lives have been threatened.

Brock revealed during a Sunday news conference details of a letter threatening him and McBride. Brock said he was sure the threat had affected his play but "to what extent I don't know."

He said information concerning the letter had leaked out and he felt the best way to relieve some of the pressure on him was to make details of the threat known.

Bing Devine, Cardinals'

general manager, attended the news conference to detail security measures taken in St. Louis, Chicago and Montreal, where the Cards wind up their regular season in a three-game series starting today.

The letter, dated Sept. 18, had a Sept. 19 St. Louis postmark and was received by the Cardinals Sept. 20. It contained numerous racial slurs and much obscene language.

It said in part:

"By beating out the Pirates this year you're costing me a $50,000.00 winnings I would have had as the result of a bet at large odds I placed on them to win back in April when they were already counted out even by the oddsmakers."

"This is no idle threat: If I think so I can assure you that neither of you will live past the 3rd, 4th, or 5th playoff game whether it be in L.A. or Cincy."

The writer said he suffers from an inoperable brain tumor and has only a month or two to live. He said he wanted to leave his wife and children the $50,000, but the Cardinals took it away from him.

"I'll have a revolver loaded with six shots and be in the stands close enough to get you both and save the last shot for myself since suicide is my only way out—unspeakable agony is not going to be mine," the letter said.

Hectic N.L. East race goes to wire

CHICAGO (AP) — Catcher Ted Simmons of the St. Louis Cardinals sloughed off congratulations on driving in his 100th run of the season. "It's all even now, baby," said Simmons. "That's what is more important."

Even it is.

The St. Louis Cardinals, getting a pinch three-run homer from Jose Cruz in the sixth inning rode to a 7-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs and climbed into a first-place tie with Pittsburgh in the National League East race.

The Pirates dropped a 7-2 decision to the New York Mets leaving each contender with three games to play. The Pirates go home for a series with the Cubs and the Cardinals wind up the season at Montreal.

"I don't think anybody has an advantage now," said Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst in reference to questions about the Cardinals finishing on the road while the Pirates are home.

"You just have to win, that's all," he said. "We play as well on the road as we do at home."

"Montreal scores more runs than some other teams, so that means we'll need a lot of pitching," said Schoendienst. "I just hope the weather is good up there."

Schoendienst conceded that it is highly probable that the two teams could end up in a first place tie which would necessitate a one-game playoff in Pittsburgh Thursday afternoon.

"Cruz' homer was the big hit," said Schoendienst, "but he's had some big hits for us throughout the year."

Cruz called it "my biggest homer ever" and said he had been hitting the ball exceptionally well in batting practice throughout the series. "It was a Puerto Rican fastball," laughed the native of Arroyo, P.R.

Except for an error by Cub shortstop Don Kessinger, Cruz might not have batted in the sixth inning when the Cardinals clinched their game-scoring four runs, all of them unearned.

With one run in as the result of a throwing error by pitcher Steve Stone, Ted Sizemore came up with two outs and a man on base. Sizemore hit a pop to Kessinger who dropped the ball for an error, setting the stage for Cruz fifth homer of the year.

The Cardinals never trailed in the game. Simmons singled home a run in the first but the Cubs came back to tie it in the bottom of the first on two singles and an error.

Joe Torre singled home a run in the Cardinal second and Lou Brock made it 3-1 with a run-scoring single in the fourth. Brock then stole his 118th base — 15th against Chicago, which is the only team not to have nailed the Cardinal thief at least once during the season.

Tough tests coming up

Big 8 regains some pride on 7-1 slate

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas Jayhawks, a team that has finally found out how to score touchdowns, and the Oklahoma State Cowboys trying to rebound after being upset, have the toughest assignments in Big Eight Conference football Saturday.

The Jayhawks, who ambushed Florida State 40-9 last Saturday, are hosts to ninth-ranked Texas A&M. The Cowboys, humiliated 31-14 by Baylor, invade Texas Tech for a night battle.

Third-ranked Oklahoma, after unloading its explosive might in a 72-3 rout of Utah State, could dish out similar treatment to Wake Forest in another home game.

Unranked Missouri, a 9-0 surprise victor over seventh-ranked Arizona State in the mud at Columbia, faces another stern test at Wisconsin, rated No. 11.

Tenth-ranked Nebraska, resuming its winning ways by brushing aside Northwestern 49-7, remains at home for another tussle with a Big Ten Conference club, Minnesota.

forces against Florida State. The Jayhawks romped 80 yards with the opening kickoff with Laverne Smith ripping 25 yards for the touchdown. The licking was Florida State's 15th straight loss.

Oklahoma State faced disaster quickly at Baylor, a team that had lost to both Oklahoma and Missouri. The Cowboys found themselves behind 10-0 in the second period although they managed to keep close, 17-14, after three quarters. Phillip Dokes made one O-State touchdown by sprawling on a fumble in the Bears' end zone.

Oklahoma struck for 42 points in the first quarter against Utah State and before it was over collected 559 yards running and passing. Joe Washington, in on only one play in the second half, contributed two Sooner touchdowns and freshman Elvis Peacock two more.

Steve Grogan sidelined because of a pinched nerve in his neck, came up with freshman signal-caller Arthur Bailey, who ran eight and two yards for touchdowns that helped subdue Pacific. Bailey hit on 10 of 19 passes for 107 yards.

Tom Goedjen's field goals of 28, 30 and 35 yards were highlights of Iowa State's decision over BYU. Mike Strachan, the Cyclones' running ace, made 118 yards on 28 carries and broke the career rushing record of 2,562 yards by Dave Hoppman in 1961.

Saturday's schedule: New Mexico at Iowa State; Wake Forest at Oklahoma; Kansas State at Mississippi State; Colorado at Air Force; Texas A&M at Kansas; Missouri at Wisconsin; Minnesota at Nebraska.

Saturday night: Oklahoma State at Texas Tech.

Orioles retain edge

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The New York Yankees are on a treadmill—they keep winning, but they can't catch up with the Baltimore Orioles.

Graig Nettles belted two home runs and Rudy May pitched a four-hitter to help the Yankees post their fourth consecutive victory, a 10-0 romp over the Cleveland Indians Sunday.

But Baltimore remained one-half game ahead of the Yankees in the chase for the American League East flag by nipping the Milwaukee Brewers 4-3, the winning run scoring on four walks in the ninth inning.

Baltimore, 88-71, has three games left in the regular season, at Detroit Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The Yankees, 88-72, have two games left, at Milwaukee Tuesday and Wednesday.

May struck out 13 in pitching his first complete game since joining the Yankees from the California Angels June 15.

New York scored two runs in the first against former Yankee Fritz Peterson, then broke it open with four runs in the third. Lou Piniella scored the first run of the inning on an error by left fielder Joe Lis. Sandy Alomar stroked a run-scoring single and relief pitcher Milt Wilcox gave up bases-loaded walks to Elliott Maddox and Murcer.

Nettles hit his first home run of the game in the fourth inning. Piniella and Thurman Munson delivered RBI singles in the fifth and Nettles hit his 22nd home run of the season in the sixth, making it 10-0.

Orioles 4, Brewers 3

"Let's have a laugh," said Boog Powell, whose bases-loaded walk in the ninth gave the Orioles their sixth victory in a row and 25th in 31 starts down the stretch. "My heart can't take much more of this."

Milwaukee starter Jim Slaton, 13-16, struck out Mark Belanger—his 10th strikeout of the game—leading off the Orioles' ninth, then issued three walks to load the bases.

Tom Murphy then relieved Slaton and got Tommy Davis to hit into a forceout at the plate before Powell walked, forcing in the winning run.

Tigers 7, Red Sox 4

Al Kaline, honored in pre-game ceremonies for having collected his 3,000th career hit last week, drove a run-scoring single to highlight a four-run sixth inning for the Tigers.

A's 3, White Sox 2

Reserve second basemen Manny Trillo stroked a pair of run-scoring singles to lead Oakland over Chicago.

Angels 4, Twins 0

Andy Hassler scattered five singles to pitch California to victory over the Twins, who were victimized by Nolan Ryan's no-hitter Saturday night.

Rangers 5, Royals 0

Jim Spencer's two-run homer backed the six-hit pitching of Bill Hands for the Rangers.

Saturday's Stars

By The Associated Press

HITTING—John Bench, Reds, belted a three-run homer—his 33rd of the season—and two singles and scored twice to help Cincinnati defeat the San Francisco Giants 7-3.

PITCHING — Rudy May, Yanks, blanked Minnesota on four hits and struck out 13, pitching New York to a 10-0 romp over the Twins.

The three remaining teams are all on the road. Colorado, coming back from a pair of sound thrashings to edge Wisconsin 24-21, meets a bitter rival, Air Force. Kansas State, which went on a scoring spree to down Pacific 38-7, puts its spotless record on the line at Mississippi State, and Iowa State, a 34-7 winner over Brigham Young, tackles New Mexico.

The weekend action resulted in seven victories and one defeat for Big Eight clubs with Kansas State, 3-0, and Oklahoma, 2-0, rolling on undefeated.

Kansas had been able to make only two touchdowns in two games although the Jayhawks piled up nearly 900 yards in total offense before Coach Don Fambrough sent his

An 18-yard pass from Ray Smith to Mark Miller in the second period and Tim Gibbons' 21-yard field goal in the fourth were all Missouri needed to shatter Arizona State's dreams of an unbeaten season. The defense did the rest.

Nebraska was fired to four first half touchdowns by Dave Humm, the quarterback who spent the week recovering from a hip pointer and didn't know until just before the game whether he would play. Humm's understudy, Earl Everett, made two TDs for the Huskers, who scored all of their six pointers on runs of no more than five yards.

Billy Waddy, the Colorado sophomore star, chipped in with 151 yards on 25 thrusts and fled five yards for the winning touchdown early in the fourth quarter against the Badgers, who a week earlier had upended Nebraska 21-20.

Miller sets single season money mark

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Miller's a little puzzled by his fantastic success in pro golf this year. He's not at all sure how it came about. He's uncertain how long it will continue.

But the All American boy—tall, blonde, handsome enough to serve as a male model, soft-spoken, a non-drinker, a non-smoker and an elder of his church—is dead sure about one thing:

"I'd never trade this season for one major championship," Miller said after his overwhelming victory Sunday in the Kaiser International Open.

"This," he said in massive understatement, "kind of caps my year."

It gave him eight titles for the year—the most anyone has won on the American tour since Arnold Palmer took the same number in 1960—and put his season money-winnings at $346,933, breaking the single season mark of $320,542 set by Nicklaus in 1972.

He won this one by eight strokes, matching the biggest victory margin on the tour this season, with a six-under-par 66 in the final round and a 271 total, a distant 17 under par on the 6,819-yard north course—he owns a home by the 10th green—at the Silverado County Club.

He moved into a share of the lead with a hole-in-one on the second hole of Saturday's third round and put it out of reach with some eye-popping putting in Sunday's final round. He one-putted seven times on the front nine, once holing from 60 feet, on his way to a 31.

PGA champ Lee Trevino finished with a final 67 and tied 43-year-old Billy Casper for second at 279.

Only two men have ever won more American tour titles than Miller—Sam Snead with 10 in 1950 and Byron Nelson with his record 18 in 1945.

Miller won the 1972 U.S. Open. He's finished second in both the British Open and Masters, but he didn't win one this year. He didn't even come close—the first time he's failed to challenge in four years.

Oswald: "The hands for the nationwide Olympiad fund game were quite interesting this year. We can use them to illustrate a lot of points in bidding and play."

Jim: "Hand seven was an East-West hand but we will shift all hands to North-South for the column. Seven notrump makes easily unless East has four diamonds to the jack and hence seven notrump is the proper contract. How to bid it is another matter, and those pairs who reached six notrump undoubtedly had better than average scores."

Oswald: "The bidding in the box shows how we would get there. The first key bid is South's response of three clubs. The game is match points and he wants to make sure that when he does bid spades North will know it is just a four-card suit."

Jim: "North's three-diamond, four-club and four-spade bids are also important. They make it possible for South to go into Blackwood and to bid seven notrump after North shows an ace and two kings. The earlier bids by North have shown the two kings he holds are the right kings."

Stresses international inflation cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford told government financial officials from around the world today that economic problems are serious and complex but the United States believes they can be solved through international cooperation.

In his text for the opening session of the annual meeting here of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund, Ford said:

"I think I can sum up our thinking very briefly. We want solutions which serve broad interests rather than narrow, self-serving ones. We want more cooperation not more isolation. We want trade not protectionism. We want price stability not inflation. We want growth not stagnation."

Ford declared that the United States is prepared to play a constructive leadership role.

He described the major economic problems as "a worldwide inflation at a rate far in excess of what we can tolerate; unparalleled disruptions in the supply of the world's major commodities; and severe hindrances to the real growth and progress of many nations, including, in particular, some of the poorest among us."

"We in America view these problems soberly and without rose-tinted glasses," Ford said. "But we believe that the same spirit of international cooperation which brought forth the Bretton Woods agreements a generation ago can resolve the difficulties we face today."

Accords reached at Bretton Woods, N.H. at the end of World War II fashioned an international monetary system that functioned essentially unchanged until the early 1970s. The IMF has been seeking to draft a replacement system.

Man slain by robbers is identified

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — A man shot to death Saturday after a holdup and traffic accident has been identified as Fred New Jr., 35, of Caraway, Deputy Coroner Marvin Thompson of Crittenden County said.

Deputy Sheriff Roy Akers of Crittenden County said Sunday night that New was shot in the side with a shotgun and in the neck with a pistol.

New's body was found at an accident scene on Interstate 55 and the Jonesboro exit north of Marion after a two-car traffic accident in which both cars left the scene before officers arrived.

Sheriff's deputies said one of the cars involved in the accident matched the description of a vehicle used a short time earlier by two men who robbed a service station at Marion of $175.

Deputies said their initial investigation showed New probably was slain by the men responsible for the holdup and whom he may have known.

Aker said the investigation was continuing.

Corporate managers not willing to move

NEW YORK (AP) — Lady Bird Johnson and her daughters have presented the second annual Lyndon Baines Johnson awards to a former mayor and the head of a self-help organization for the poor.

The widow of President Johnson and daughters Lucy Nugent and Lynda Robb presented the awards to former Mayor Ivan Allen of Atlanta, Ga., and Franklin A. Thomas, president of the Bedford-Stuyvesant Restoration Corp., here Saturday.

The awards, $12,500 each to Allen and Thomas, were established to honor Americans who have made a substantial contribution to mankind in their particular fields of endeavor. Mrs. Johnson said of the award to Allen:

"I'm proud that it was the tool of politics, of which I have a high regard, that Ivan Allen used to achieve the changes he did in Atlanta."

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Sanjay Gandhi, the 28-year-old son of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, and a campus beauty queen had a wedding that was quiet by Indian standards.

Gandhi, an automobile designer, and Menaka Anand, the 18-year-old daughter of an army officer, signed marriage documents before a local magistrate and close relatives and friends.

Officials said both families wanted a low-key ceremony because of the Indian economic crisis. Weddings in India often are huge festive events that demonstrate a family's affluence.

Grand Central Station in New York City, completed in 1913, is the world's largest rail depot.

NEW YORK (AP) — Managers of corporations are rebelling these days against the geographical moves that became associated with upward mobility, or success, during the 1960s.

The reaction, says Eugene Jennings, management professor at Michigan State University, is creating pandemonium in some large corporations, which had come to think of their management group as totally predictable.

"Now they have uncertain markets and uncertain supplies, and on top of those they have managers whose behavior in regard to geographical changes also is uncertain," Jennings said. In the 1960s, he said, the need to move was unquestioned.

Now, however, both managers and their wives are asking a lot of questions before agreeing or disagreeing with a planned move. They are putting their family first, after learning that all geographical moves weren't necessarily upward moves on the ladder of success. Jennings, who pioneered in the study of corporate routes to success, has identified four common types among the immobile:

1. The middle manager, age 35 to 40, who is making $26,000 to $30,000 a year in salary. He has moved 8 to 10 times already, with probably five of those moves producing no noticeable climb up the ladder.
2. The "entree" manager, just one step above the beginner. He is less than five years into his career. He believes that husband and wife can make as much money staying put as they could if they were mobile and had only one salary.

3. The broken home type. He is a man who probably lost his marriage and home because of too many moves in the 1960s. Now he is happily married again, and he is willing to forgo success for happiness.

4. The wife who is approaching middle-age and whose children are grown up and living away from her home. She has a need for established relationships with other women or organizations. She refuses to move.

As a result, says Jennings, the reservoir of managerial talent available to a growing, geographically diversified company is shrinking.

Whereas a company once could order an executive to another area and expect complete compliance, it now must assess the possible impact on the executive's family and prove to the man that it will contribute to his success.

America, said Jennings, was founded on two opposite concepts—that of mobility, the "promised land ethic," exemplified in the advice "go West young man;" and the stay-at-home attitude in which a person is urged to stay home and develop roots.

The same conflict, says Jennings, still exists today, to the confusion of many personnel departments. In the 1960s an immobile person could be shelved and forgotten, but immobility is now so common that such procedures would irreparably damage a company.

Some companies, he said, are now happy to have one out of three transfers accepted by its managers.
